

Manufacturing Exports to China

Come meet Commercial Specialist Liu Yang of the U.S. Consulate General located in Shenyang, China!

From 2002 to 2006, China was Tennessee's most rapidly growing export market, with particularly rapid growth in exports of industrial machinery (including computers), cotton, man-made fibers, organic chemicals, and numerous other commodities.

Ms. Yang will provide an overview of the manufacturing and agricultural industries in China and discuss how U.S. manufacturing exporters can take advantage of this market.

Don't miss this excellent and rare opportunity to ask questions about the Chinese market directly with a Commercial Specialist posted in China. One-on-one appointments are available after the presentation.

Call or email to reserve your seat at this event and to schedule your counseling session with Ms. Yang.
